PLAY SCORES SUCCESS FOR HOME TALENT

"WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" IS WELL RECEIVED BY TWO LARGE AUDIENCES

New reputations were made and old ones substantiated by the cast of the three-act farce, "The Whole Town's Talking," presented to good-sized audiences Friday and Saturday nights at the Covina union high school auditorium.

The play was the first to be launched by the newly-organized Covina Community Players, and, although several plays have been staged here under the same management and with many of the same people in the cast, the first play under the new organization was considered to be something of a criterion of the manner in which the city and valley would respond to a permanent attempt at spoken drama. This farce-comedy was well received by the audiences. It is not a rip-roaring slapstick vehicle, and the laughs were mostly subtle, but the audience rose to each situation in a manner that was gratifying to the performers and the management. It is the hardest kind of hard work to put on an amateur play, calling for much sacrifice of time and the burning of the midnight oil. Men and women who spend their days earning a living must give their evenings. But there is no the results of at 2000 in the instance.

The local playgoers were glad to see Donald L. "Dutch" Harrington back in the cast after skipping several plays. He carried the principal male role with outstanding ability, that of "Henry Simmons," a manufacturer who has definite ideas as to who his daughter is to marry. He is anxious to bring about a marital alliance between his daughter and his business partner, the latter part being that of "Chester Binney," played by Sam W. Stead. The advent of this young Covina business man into the glare of the footlights was somewhat unpropitious, it is said. But he made good a thousand per cent. His naturally droll disposition fitted his part, and at times he came near to "stealing the show." The part of Harriet Simmons, wife of the manufacturer, was very well sustained by Lauretta M. Hughes, and the carefree, breezy daughter, Ethel, about whom all the conspiring centered, was well handled by Velora T. Pummil, an amateur star and favorite of several local plays. The part of the motion picture actress, Letty Lythe, was essayed by Ora D. McClelland, who has also been a part of the local play atmosphere, and while not giving as much opportunity for expression as some of the other roles, was made effective. Donald Swift, a motion picture director, was the part played by George Z. McClelland, who added something to his growing reputation in amateur histrionics.

The part of Roger Shields, a young Chicagoan with Parisian accent and affection, was well handled by Phil W. Nash, and two young things who were cast as friendly atmosphere for the vivid daughter Ethel were played in just the right atmosphere by Marian T. Steinfeld and Lea Etta Taylor. A smaller part, but one which was effective and pleasing was that of the maid, played by Nadia Simeonoff. The part of Sadie Bloom, a dancing teacher, was played by Jessie Wright, and that of the taxi driver by J. Bud Wright.

This play is one written and staged by John Emerson and Anita Loos, the latter being noted for her book, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." It was staged here by Anthony Schorngale, who has made a success of all his offerings, and he was assisted in stage management by Phil Nash, J. B. Wright and George Z. McClelland. Two other offerings are scheduled for the season, one a play and another a musical comedy.

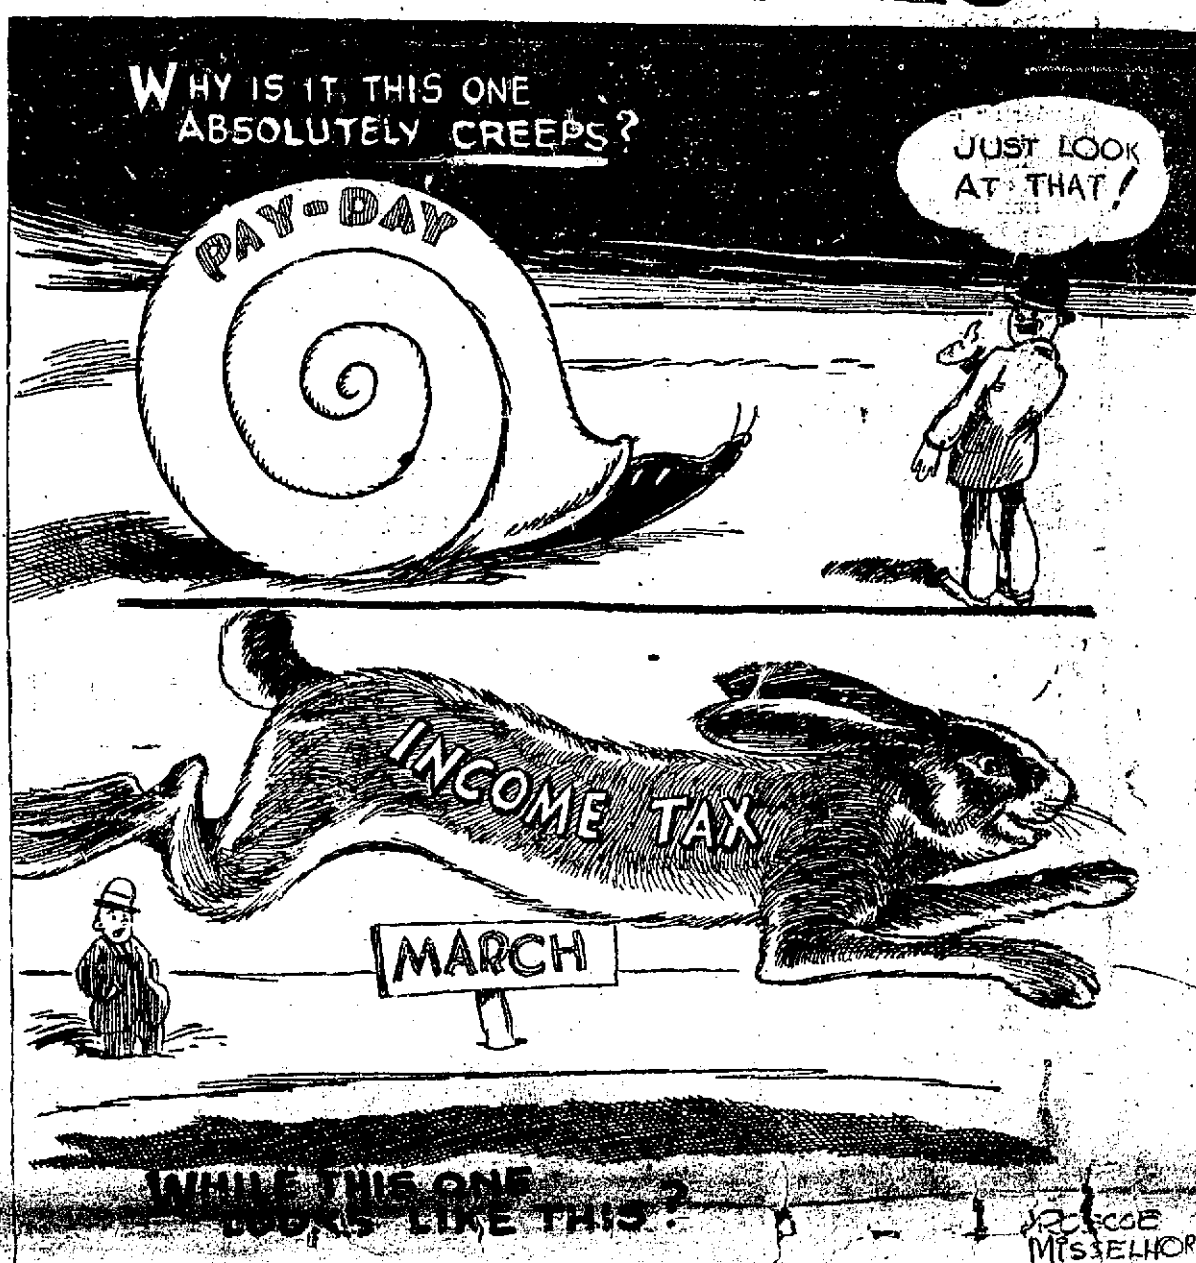

REV. S. W. GAGE WILL PREPARE FOR REVIVAL

Rev. S. W. Gage, a former pastor of the Covina Baptist church, returns this week to do pastoral work preparatory to a series of revival services.

Although absent for a number of years, Mr. Gage has still many friends in Covina and the surrounding valley, who will learn with pleasure that he will occupy the pulpit of the local church.

"No place on earth is so beautiful to me as Covina," remarked Mr. Gage, when he called at the Argus office, yesterday. The character of the people, its schools, churches, and social advantages makes Covina the most desirable residential section of Southern California, he said.

"ANIMAL STORIES"

Church Audience in Last Tribute to Dr. Chas. Fingerle

A church filled with friends and fellow church members who had known and loved him, constituted the last rites on Saturday last for Dr. Charles F. Fingerle of Covina, whose biography was published in the last issue of this newspaper.

During his long activity in Covina city and valley he had been an official of the Methodist church, and the congregation filled the church as a mark of respect. The floral tributes were very many, and were mute testimony of the esteem in which he was held.

The pallbearers were old friends, including S. E. Coons, W. J. Evans, J. M. Whittle, E. L. Jackson, Seth Colver, F. G. Paddock, and were selected from the church membership and the Lions club. Gage Christopher, a relative of the family, and for years a well known vocalist in Los Angeles, sang two numbers, "Crossing the Bar" and "Abide With Me."

Services were conducted by Rev. Stead, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Bode A. Johnson, a former pastor. Interment was in Forest Lawn cemetery in Los Angeles.

GEORGE MCCAIGE, PIONEER, DIES AT PUENTE HOME

The death of George D. McCaige of Puente marks the passing of another pioneer of the San Gabriel valley. He was 88 years of age and had been a resident of the valley for about 60 years, passing his last days at his family residence near the old Rowland school. He is survived by a son, George McCaige of Puente, and two daughters, Mrs. Shugg of El Monte and Miss Anna McCaige, who resided with her father.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Christiansen & Moore's chapel, Rev. George Stead of the Methodist church officiating. The Masonic lodge of Puente, of which deceased was a charter member, conducted the rites of the order at Savannah cemetery, west of El Monte, where interment was made.

In 1918 it had an investment of $1,334,000; its investment now in the San Gabriel valley is $5,334,000. It employed 80 men in 1918. There are now 333 people on the payroll in the San Gabriel valley. It had a payroll in 1918 of $82,000 annually, which is now $504,000, or an increase of 514 per cent.

SAN GABRIEL DAM NOT TO BE RESERVOIR

PASADENA'S REQUEST FOR STORAGE RIGHTS DENIED
BY SUPERVISORS

Pasadena will get no water from the $25,000,000 San Gabriel dam if the opinion of Flood Control Counsel Roy Dowds, accepted by the board of supervisors Wednesday, prevails. Chairman McClelland of the board sent a formal letter of polite refusal to the request of Pasadena city officials that they be allowed to rent space in the dam to store the water supply that Pasadena needs from the San Gabriel river.

The letter informed the Pasadena city directors that the board of supervisors deeply sympathized with Pasadena's efforts to get water from the San Gabriel river, but that it could not legally enter into a contract that would make the San Gabriel lake a storage reservoir as well as a flood-control basin.

Dowds' opinion, which was concurred in by County Counsel Mattison, further stated that legislation devised to make the San Gabriel lake a storage reservoir would be illegal and probably would be successfully opposed in the courts.

Pasadena's only alternative in its struggle for a San Gabriel water supply is to build a costly dam in the canyon below the county's 425-foot structure. This dam would be a Long Beach and San Gabriel cities have declared they will carry to the supreme court of the United States any effort on the part of the foothill city to take water from the San Gabriel river.

It is the opinion of Long Beach civic leaders that before Colorado river water can be brought to southern California cities, there will not be enough water in the San Gabriel basin for the use of both Pasadena and Long Beach, so naturally they are struggling to conserve the limited supply available to them. Pasadena now obtains its water from the Arroyo Seco sands, but, according to experts, this supply is limited.

High School Boy Killed by Train at Baldwin Park

The shocking death of Grover Martin, Jr., a former Covina youth and a student at the Covina high school, occurred at the Covina hospital at 8:30 last Friday evening, just one hour after his limbs were severed from his body by the wheels of a rock train. The accident occurred at the intersection of Main street and Covina boulevard in Baldwin Park. Martin, who was standing with a group of Baldwin Park and Covina boys on the corner of the new bank building, joined with the others in a sudden idea to jump the flat car that was used to carry rock and was passing thru the town. He reached the car and got on board. Noticing that his companions were not following, he had attempted to jump off and fell under the wheels. Both limbs were severed, one being cut twice in two. His brother and another boy sped for the father, who reached the hospital a few moments before his death.

The young man was born in Dinuba, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Martin. He had reached his eighteenth birthday on the 25th of February. He was a promising boy, a sophomore in high school. His family has lived in Covina off and on for several years, the last time residing on Stanton's dairy ranch. Surviving are his father, step-mother and a brother, Jack.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Taylor's undertaking parlors, Baldwin Park, by Rev. Frank Colville. Interment was at Oakdale.

While in the east Miss Kinney will visit relatives in Cincinnati, Chicago and New York. She has appeared in the valley on numerous occasions, and there are many friends who are interested in her career.

Early History of Valley Recorded by Club Section

Also the history and landmarks section of the Woman's club has not been large in membership, the work it is doing in establishing dates of pioneer affairs and adding facts to the early history of the valley is commendable. At the meeting on Monday, several interesting facts were related with regard to the old trail between San Bernardino and San Gabriel, contributed by Mrs. Pardon Head and other members.

It was reported that the first road thru Covina was established in 1771. This road, which is the main boulevard and was known for years as the San Bernardino road, was traveled by Bautista de Anza in entering the San Gabriel valley from Mexico. De Anza traveled along the east side of the San Jacinto mountains, crossing at San Carlos pass, and used this same trail made by the mission fathers thru the valley. He made two trips, in 1774 and 1775, bringing in settlers and cattle.

In 1819 the mission fathers established San Bernardino Asistencia rancho, south of the present city of San Bernardino, and passed thru Covina on this same road in going to and from the rancho between the years 1819 and 1834.

In 1820, Jedediah Strong Smith came down from Salt Lake City, crossed the Cajon pass, covering the same route thru the valley. Smith camped at Mud Springs, southwest of the present town of San Dimas. This tract comprised six acres and was located on what is now known as Cinega road, at the end of Artesia avenue. Mud Springs was also a station for the stage road and had a hotel. It is remembered by the early settlers as far back as 1877.

Tree Planted in City Park by D.A.R. Chapter

Covina chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, observed its annual conservation and thrift program on Tuesday at the city park. The chairmen were Mrs. Alice Clapp and Mrs. D. E. Stafford. A luncheon was spread at one o'clock. Among the guests were Mr. E. G. Prather, Mr. C. E. Varney, Mrs. Celia Graham, Mrs. E. E. Harriman of Los Angeles, and Dr. and Mrs. Russell F. Thrapp.

As usual at this particular program, a tree was planted in honor of the past regent. Mrs. C. T. Booth was honored at this time by the planting of a beautiful carob tree in an open space east of the plunge. Dr. Thrapp gave a talk on trees, comparing their uses to human lives, and closed with a poem by Lucy Barcom, "Planting a Tree." Mrs. Thrapp sang Joyce Kilmer's well-known "Trees." Mrs. Booth threw the first shovel of dirt, her grandchildren, Barbara and Lawrence Crook, completing the work. Another tree, a species of camphor, was set north of the bath house.

The next meeting, to be held in April at the hotel cafeteria, will be open to the public. Captain Roscoe Goodell of Los Angeles will speak on "The Awakening of China."

Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore of Claremont, Mrs. Crozier and Mr. Jack Hangel of Glendale were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zug Saturday evening to attend the community play.

STRANGE CASE INVESTIGATED BY COUNTY

HOME ON WORKMAN AVENUE
FILLED WITH JEWELS AND
NEW MERCHANDISE

Investigations as to the mental competency of Florence Johnston, 34 years old, and her mother, said to be over 80 years old, were begun this week by Mrs. Rogers and Officer Dodge of the county welfare commission, following reports that had reached that office thru the office of Constable Saunders.

One of the strangest cases in the history of the township may develop, county officials declared, growing out of a search of the home on Workman street, east of Hollenbeck street, and which occupied the time of three officers for two days. During that search hundreds of articles, including jewelry, household furniture, lingerie, fancy stationery and clothing were checked by the officers, and ownership of these articles is under investigation.

Together with Officer Dodge and Mrs. Rogers, Deputy Constable Jim Pearson worked for two days on the tabulation of these articles, many of which were found in strange wrappings, and secreted in many parts of the residence. Much of the merchandise was found stored in the attic in trunks. Fancy dresses that apparently had never been worn, and many that had never been unwrapped, original parcels, expensive drapery, table covers, linen napkins, and small amounts of cash hidden beneath merchandise were uncovered by the officers. One deposit of money contained $28 in change, and another a small box containing nickels, all tarnished, and evidently undisturbed for some time.

FIND LIBRARY BOOKS

In the search the officers collected twenty-eight books belonging to the Covina public library, which, according to Mrs. H. M. Faulder, librarian, had been missing for some time. After spending the greater portion of last Friday and Monday, the officers made a complete tabulation of the contents of the house. Some articles were taken to Los Angeles for further identification, among them being a large quantity of silver bearing the name of Boos Brothers cafeteria, several expensive handbags and purses, hardware, including new hammers and hatchets, an unopened box containing an enameled pair of household scales, and other merchandise, all tucked away in out-of-the-way places.

FANTASTIC DRESS

Officers declared that although the house was filled with expensive lingerie, they found the elder woman dressed in a pair of blue overalls beneath a household dress, with an underdress made of coffee sacks. Receipts found in the household disclosed that the women had recently had communications from the Corn Exchange bank and the Dime Savings bank, both of New York city, and there were also receipts from the safety deposit departments of two Los Angeles banks.

PEARLS DISCOVERED

Officer Pearson uncovered a large necklace of pearls, which were declared afterwards to be of considerable value. The elder woman, when shown them, made the remark that she thought the necklace had been stolen from her many years ago, as she had not seen it for some years.

The women have been noted on the streets of Covina many times, and it has been stated that their actions were out of the ordinary. Negotiations are in progress by county officials to unravel the mystery.

Oliver Jenkins Harmon, a young man of twenty years, who resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Harmon, at Fifth and Dalton, Azusa, shot himself last Saturday. When the Boundaries Changed

By FREDERICK HART

THE little river that divided the Montgomery property from the Trenholm estate was a peaceful enough stream to all appearances; it wound lazily through the flat land of the valley, apparently taking always the longest, laziest course to get where it was going and not very particular as to when it got there. But the stream, innocently enough to all appearances, could make trouble when it chose. Once it did choose. On this occasion, swollen by the melted snows from the surrounding hills, it rose in its might and carved out a new channel for itself.

There was no loss of life entailed in this whim of the river's; but it caused much trouble for the two families who lived on opposite sides of it. The title deeds to the land gave the boundaries as the river—no more, no less; and the new channel added twenty acres of land to the Montgomery estate and subtracted an equal number from the Trenholm holding.

The Trenholms went to law about it; the Montgomerys defended their newly acquired estate with vigor; and, as is the way of lawsuits, the case dragged on and on, arriving at no particular conclusion except to cause much bad blood where there was but little before and to make enemies out of former friends.

Margaret Trenholm, blond, pretty and just turned twenty, came in for her share of the family feud. Her father, hard and stern ever, instilled or tried to instill into her mind his animosity for his neighbors; and it is likely that he would have succeeded had not fate taken a hand and decreed that one day when Margaret was riding her favorite horse near the boundaries of her estate she should meet young Davis Montgomery, just home from the college where he was studying law.

Three more meetings cemented their friendship before either found out who the other was. When the names were disclosed it was too late. These two young people had progressed past the point where inherited differences of opinion have any weight. If they had not fallen in love at first sight they had at least accomplished that desirable thing at third or fourth sight.

Thus it came about that one showery day in early June Davis Montgomery received a note with his morning mail which he read in private and which gave him apparently a great deal of satisfaction. After breakfast, the law-abiding father, that he was going to take a turn down by the river to look at the banks. The floods were still on, there was a report of high water from up the valley and he wanted to assure himself that all was well in the lower fields.

Down to the river bank rode young Davis Montgomery, and in a moment there came to the opposite bank a vision in a riding habit.

"Davis!" Margaret called to him. "Good morning, dear!"

Margaret, the better to speak to him, urged her horse to the edge of the bank where it overhung the stream. "Be careful!" shouted Davis. "The bank's undercut there!"

But his warning came too late. The bank, dug under by the ceaseless worrying of the river, crumbled and gave way under the weight of the girl and horse. In an instant Margaret was struggling in the swift stream, clinging to the bridle of her frightened mount; but in another instant Davis had leaped his horse into the stream and the two of them were making the best time possible out to where the brown head of Margaret could be seen beside the black head of her horse.

The struggle was brief but violent. Davis' Dandy was used to the water and kept his head magnificently. After what seemed ages of battle Davis and Dandy succeeded in dragging the almost unconscious girl up a fortunately shelving bank, safe on dry land. "Thank goodness you're safer!" breathed Davis.

Margaret heard his voice, tense with anxiety, and was in his arms, laughing and crying at once, glad after the tension of her escape to be able to lean on some one whom she loved.

Then suddenly the thought of her stern father and Davis' equally stern parent intruded.

"Oh, Davis, dearest, why can't our families be friends? If only that stupid lawsuit could be settled we—we could get married and everything would be all right."

But Davis seemed unconscious of her grief. "Look! Look! The river!" he shouted.

Margaret looked as directed. Before her eyes she saw the water gnawing at the thin bank that divided it from the old channel. The June rise had done its work. Even as the two watched the earth gave way, there was a great roar and a tumbling of foamy brown water, and the river, so long diverted, had found its original course again. The new channel lay muddy but empty before them, and the lawsuit that had so long divided the houses of Montgomery and Trenholm was settled out of court.

It was two happy young people who went up to the Trenholm house an hour later.

"You see," said Margaret to Davis, "we have to tell them that the river has brought the families together again—and that we are going to tie the knot so tight that it can't ever come untied!"

Jubilee Singers and Drama at Covina Theater

Another treat is in store for patrons of the Covina theater tomorrow (Saturday), when two performances will be given, one at 2:30, and the night show at 7. In addition to the picture show will be the Dixie Jubilee quartet, a versatile colored troop singing old favorites, popular hits and selected music. The picture program is Zane Grey's story of "The Water Hole," featuring Jack Holt. On the matinee only, the opening chapter of "Tarzan the Mighty" serial will be shown. Monday night the Ralston players will be on the stage again with the hilarious comedy, "The Hottentot." The show begins at 7:00 with the latest news reel, a good comedy, then the feature, "Honeymoon Flats." On Sunday "The Crash," a Milton Sills-First National picture, will fill the screen. Then on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sue Carroll in "The Shopworn Angel," with a Charlie Chase comedy and latest news reel, while on Thursday and Friday "The Canary Murder Case," with a riot of fun in the Hal Roach comedy, "When Money Comes" and the latest news reel will complete the bill.

Boys Under 16 Eligible to Junior Olympic Games

Thousands of boys in southern California are now engaged in preparing for competition in the second annual junior Olympic games, an event open to every youngster who is registered under competent athletic supervision. Last year more than 25,000 juveniles took part in the southern California games, and four went to Atlantic City to compete in the national finals. One of the four, Johnny Falcon of Azusa, rose to great heights and captured the national championship, this victory bringing him a trip to the Olympic games at Amsterdam, with all expenses paid. This year four southern California boys will receive a trip to the Hawaiian islands as a reward for their performance in the junior Olympics. Any boy who will not be more than 16 years of age on September 1st may compete in the contests provided he represents an organization having an athletic director.

COVINA THE LOCATION OF A MOVIE COMPANY

(By Society Editor, Miss Adeline Hamperdyk)
The beauties and natural setting of this fair town have at last come to the attention of a new movie company to be on location here March 15th. This item is especially interesting to Covina people because, chosen from a bevy of beautiful girls, one of Covina's own lassies is to be the star of the production. She will be no surprise to us, for we've long known her charms, but we will appreciate them more knowing that an outsider like Director Archibald Bachelor praises them so highly.

Director Bachelor also tells us that the comedian of his company is one of the highest salaried funny men in the country.

The vampire, Sonorita Gillespie, says the town here reminds her of dear old Spain. Even the oranges look as they do there. She has her troubles, tho, for a burglar is constantly after her jewels.

A funny man with a black face, a sleepy fat boy, a cowboy and sign boards that come to life add to the fun and surprise of this production. You can't afford to miss the opportunity to see a high class movie company in action. Just thirty-five cents for adults and twenty cents for children.

"Alice in Movieland" is here! Come boost our town! You've guessed it! The grammar school operetta, March 15th, at 7:45—a "reel" thriller! It

Announcement!

To Men and Young Men who contemplate the purchase of a new suit this spring.

Spring Suits positively new (not a last years suit in the store) now ready at this store. You are invited to see them.

STYLES and FABRICS

In both men's and young men's models the tendency is to more conservative styles—suits that can be worn on most all occasions—a change much to be desired by the man who purchases but one suit during the year.

Fabrics from which these suits are made are conservative in pattern also. The new brown shades predominate. Oxford grays and silver grays are also favored.

The price range is also conservative when you consider the quality, style and service, which we guarantee, is the equal of any ready-to-wear suits made in America.

BOTTLE DRIFTS MANY MILES
ON OCEAN CURRENTS

One of the longest "bottle voyages" ever recorded has been entered in the finding of a bottle on the shore of a small island near Japan, says Popular Mechanics magazine. According to the form it contained, the phial was thrown from a ship about 250 miles west of Mexico, Nov. 14, 1926. It has thus traveled at least 6500 miles, according to the drift of the ocean currents, and probably much farther. These bottles are set adrift by the hydrographic office with instructions that the finder return the paper inside after it has been marked to tell the place and date of its discovery, so that data may be obtained as to the direction and speed of the sea currents.

War Heroes Not
in World History

Tujunga Record-Ledger: At last the germ of an idea is poking its head (if germs have a head) over the wall of obtuseness built by generation after generation of school textbook writers and publishers. A new experiment in school book writing is being undertaken in which wars and battles are being given only the attention their relative importance justifies and emphasis is correctly placed on an economic and industrial interpretation of the world's history. The wonder is that there have not been more wars, when each succeeding crop of school children has been pumped full of the fallacious doctrine that the most important characters in history have been military leaders and the most important events military undertakings. In addition to being vicious, the long-winded accounts of marches and counter-marches and flank movements and retreats, together with dates and places and commanding officers' names are unutterably dreary. "History and economics, which should and could be the most interesting of classroom studies, were in danger of becoming, thanks largely to the text book writers, the most unpopular and uninteresting."

Lighter home tasks—every day

Modern women pride themselves on keeping house well—but with as little effort as possible. The day of the martyr is past. And one of the most vital aids to efficient new-day housekeeping is the "years ahead" General Electric Refrigerator.

The planning of menus is so much simpler—and the number of trips to market can be cut in half. Entertaining has lost its effort because the problem of what to serve can now be so pleasantly solved.

The General Electric Refrigerator is different from all others. All its machinery is safely sealed in an airtight steel casing. It never needs oiling. It operates automatically, quietly and economically. It makes plenty of ice and keeps foods at the scientifically correct temperature—below 50 degrees always.

Goodhousekeepers like the broom-room under these refrigerators. And they have commented favorably on the upward-rising current of air which radiates from the coils and keeps the dust from settling. See the various models—and examine them from every angle. If you want to, you can buy yours on a deferred payment plan.

WHAT HAS CIRCULATION TO DO WITH ADVERTISING?

Here's the answer to the question—

WHY—
do stores display their goods in the windows instead of merely displaying them inside?

BECAUSE—
more people pass outside the stores than inside.

Circulation

WHY—
does a store on Citrus avenue command a higher rent than one in the residence section?

BECAUSE—
more people pass Citrus avenue than they do any named residential section.

WHY—
does an advertisement in the Covina Argus bring better results?

BECAUSE—
it is a newspaper that is read with interest.

IT IS READ

Early Days in Covina

TEN YEARS AGO

Word has been received by his friends here of the safe arrival in Honolulu of Allison Given, who left Covina the first of the month to return to a position of athletic coach in a boys' college which he was filling before his enlistment in the army. He was taken from the wharf to the college in a flower-bedecked automobile and found his room decorated with flowers.

Edward Insley, one of the editors of the Los Angeles Examiner who recently purchased the Malcolm McCarthy grove on Puente street, has this week purchased the Mrs. George Jeffrey 5 acres, adjoining the McCarthy property. Mr. Insley has let the contract for the erection of a 7-room bungalow and his family will come to Covina to live as soon as the house is completed.

Ensign Robert Philleo, who has been acting paymaster in the U. S. navy, and stationed at New York, has received his discharge and will arrive home this week. He expects to resume his position as cashier of the First National bank.

Clyde Stephens, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Y. Stephens, has received his discharge from the U. S. forces and arrived home last week.

W. P. Nye has been visiting in Washington, D. C., with his brother, Prof. A. W. Nye of the University of Southern California, who has been doing government work there for nearly a year. Mr. Nye will also visit in the east his son, Wilbur, who is a student at West Point military academy.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Those who attended the entertainment at the Covina Opera House last Tuesday night by the Woman's club, feel that they received several times the price of admission. The program, lasting over two hours and a half, consisted of popular and classical numbers on the photograph and graphophone, a number of beautiful tableaux, and a special evening edition of the Argus, with local items by the Argus's own war correspondent, Dave A. Lewis. This edition contained apt jokes on many of the worthy townsmen.

The past week E. Pollard has sold his harness shop to J. A. McMickle. Mr. Pollard took as part consideration a ten-acre ranch on San Bernardino road. Mr. McMickle came from Oregon a year ago. The harness shop carries the largest stock in the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark of Marcelline, Mo., have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. D. Reed, and started on their return trip Thursday morning.

Some of the teachers entertained Monday evening at the home of Miss Maude Parker. Dr. Mosher received first prize in a drawing contest.

Our readers will rejoice to learn that C. H. Ruddock, the popular owner of Mountain View, is expected to arrive from the east today to spend the balance of the winter in California. The familiar figure of this gentleman has been greatly missed in our streets this winter, as he takes a personal interest in Covina citizens.

Son and Daughter to Administrate Stocker Estate

Plans for the establishment of the Clara Baldwin Stocker home for women, to be one of the largest institutions of its kind in America, will be rushed as rapidly as legal requirements permit, Joseph E. Mullender of West Covina, trustee for the project, stated this week.

Special letters of administration were granted this week by Probate Judge Archbald to Mrs. Rosebud Doble Mullender and Albert E. Snyder, daughter and son of the late Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, to enable them to complete a land deal with the West Side Land company involving $1,591,000.

Formal letters of administration will not be issued until March 25, and it will be at least four months before any distribution of the ten to fifteen million dollar estate is made, according to Francis I. Henry, attorney for the petitioners.

Under the terms of Mrs. Stocker's will, probated Monday, 20 per cent of this huge amount will go for the building and maintenance of the Clara Baldwin Stocker Home, to be located in Los Angeles county, for white women of Protestant faith above 60 years of age and physically incapacitated for earning a living.

Radio Orators Taken to Task by Verdugo Editor

Every time I give way to a fond hope that the distasteful species of ranting orator has been entirely wiped out I turn on the radio and hear a blast that makes me cower and tremble or I sit at a dinner table and listen to some loud-mouthed, leather-lunged windbag do his best to paralyze permanently the organs of hearing in the unfortunate ear that is nearest him. Sometimes—not often, but sometimes—the ranting speaker really is trying to say something worth while, but its effect always is lost in the volume of sound. The downtown preachers whose congregations have furnished them radio broadcasting facilities are about the worst offenders. In addition to shouting until it would seem that an ordinary lung could stand no more they sob, quaver, and gulp, and lower their voices to a rasping whisper that is nearly as bad as the yelling. The radio will gradually—too gradually, I'm afraid—eliminate the ranter. Because it is even worse to hear him over the air than it is to see him at the same time. Herbert Hoover is the most effective speaker who has ever used the microphone. May his imitators be legion.—Record-Ledger of the Verdugo Hills.

And have you ever tuned in on the preacher who sounds like a small dog snapping at you?

Dr. S. G. Mosher Assumes Practice of Dr. Fingerle

Dr. S. G. Mosher will take over the practice of the late Dr. Charles F. Fingerle on the 15th of this month, having taken a lease on the office and equipment.

Dr. Mosher was a graduate of the Kirksville school of osteopathy in 1906. After practicing in Iowa for three years he came to Los Angeles and entered upon a post-graduate course at the Los Angeles school of osteopathy, having his office in the Grant building at Fourth and Broadway for fourteen years.

In 1913 Dr. Mosher purchased a walnut grove on Willow street, east of Baldwin Park, where he has resided for six years. He has maintained an office in Baldwin Park for the past two years.

Dr. Mosher has a clientele in this community who will be glad to know that he has established an office in Covina.

SCHOOL BOY INJURED BY STEPPING IN PATH OF AUTO

Charles Robert Roose, the small son of Manager Roose of the Safeway store, was injured Friday morning in attempting to cross School street near the grammar school. The little fellow stepped out of the way of an approaching automobile only to run in front of an approaching car which he did not see. The driver, Mr. Cassens, applied his brakes, stopping within the short distance of two feet and preventing serious injury to the child, who suffered only slight wounds on his face. After being treated at the hospital he was taken to his home on West Badillo street.

BASEBALL TEAM PLAYS AT FULLERTON TODAY

Coach "Chief" Newman is taking his baseball team to Fullerton this (Friday) afternoon, where the local ball tossers will meet the Fullerton high school team in a practice game at 3:30. It is given out at the school that Covina has never beaten Fullerton in a game of baseball, in spite of the fact that Covina has had many championship teams in the past. So the game this afternoon should be interesting, especially if Chamberlain pitches, as is expected. Willoughby will probably be the catcher.

Tuesday afternoon Covina lost to Franklin, 11-2, in a game played on the local diamond. Covina led most of the time, but was nosed out by the Kitefliers at the finish. Compton and Willoughby formed the battery, Chamberlain not pitching any because of a slight injury to one of his fingers.

CHURCH AUXILIARY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The ladies' auxiliary of the Presbyterian church elected the following officers at its meeting held last week with Mrs. Clarence Hunter: president, Mrs. Hunter; secretary, Mrs. Ralph Chambers; treasurer, Mrs. Boyd King; vice presidents, Mrs. Ralph Frost, Mrs. C. M. Wood, Mrs. Roy Harris.

Yesterday afternoon the auxiliary held a tea at the home of Mrs. Norman Williams, on the Kellogg ranch.

MINING A GREAT BASIC INDUSTRY

Mining is the basis of all wealth. Mining creates new wealth. It takes the useless from the ground, and transforms it into the invaluable.

The great west was opened up by mining. Towns, transportation, and industrial growth were born into being by mines. It paved the way for agricultural development to follow. The precious metals support the monetary systems. The base metals, such as copper, lead and zinc, are indispensable in modern life.

Mines have brought direct prosperity to many states, where mining is the principal industry. And directly, thru its widespread service it has benefited the entire nation, and every American citizen.

Timely Discipline

Grandmother—Well, dear, have you done your good deed today?
Boy Scout—Yes, I've taught Cousin Lucy not to poke her tongue out at Boy Scouts!—London Passing Show.

Production of Lemons at Peak, Expert Declares

According to the recent 1929 Agricultural Outlook, prepared under the direction of H. R. Wellman of the agricultural extension service, the future of the lemon industry looks brighter.

The available information indicates that lemon production in this state is now at its peak. While there may be a further increase in the average yield per acre due to the increased age of the trees, it is not likely to be large, and it will probably be largely offset by a decrease in bearing acreage. Since 1925 the trend of bearing acreage has been downward, falling from 44,270 acres in 1925 to 42,360 acres in 1928. This downward trend is likely to continue during the next few years at least, since the present non-bearing acreage amounts to less than 2700 acres, which is not sufficient for normal replacements. It should not be expected, however, that this downward trend will be rapid. Decreases in the acreages of tree fruits take place slowly.

Fortunately for the welfare of the entire lemon industry, the California Fruit Growers Exchange has been able to regulate shipments sufficiently to avoid extreme disaster in years of large crops. If all the lemons that were produced in this state during the two years of 1925-26 and 1926-27 had been shipped, it would have resulted in a very much smaller gross return than was received. The experience during the past twenty years has been that a small crop brings a larger total return than a large crop, other things such as imports and temperatures being equal.

GUESTS ENTERTAINED AT "ORANGECREST" RANCH

Miss Victoria Reynolds entertained Friday and Saturday afternoons with beautifully appointed bridge and kam-ra parties at her ranch home, Orangecrest, on Vincent avenue. More than one hundred guests were entertained during the two afternoons. The living rooms were decorated with bowls of spring blossoms in every color. On Friday the prize winners for bridge were Mrs. Claude Searey and Mrs. Edward Walters, and on Saturday were Mrs. J. D. Coles and Mrs. William Viney. On each afternoon high score holder at the kam-ra tables were presented with decks of this new game.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE AT EVENING OF FIVE HUNDRED

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barker entertained about thirty friends Saturday evening at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Mamie Barker, on Puente boulevard. After an evening of games and five hundred, for which Mr. and Mrs. Barker Kneeling won the first prizes and Mr. Amos Didier the consolation, a pantomime was presented for the entertainment of the guests. In shadow, the figure of a newsboy appeared, shouting an extra about a robbery and holdup. This was enacted, the principals being Miss Agnes Didier and Mr. Ira Oberg. Miss Didier took the part of the robber in robbing the heart of her leading man, and Miss Didier of the holdup, in demanding the ring. The date of the marriage, thus announced, was not made known, but is reported to be at an early date. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Mamie Barker and Mrs. Lambertson, served a dainty supper, appointments being carried out in green in celebration of St. Patrick's day, which comes this month.

Dam in Pacoima Canyon Accepted by Supervisors

The world's highest dam, situated in the Pacoima canyon, four miles above San Fernando, was turned over to the public last week in the presence of county officials.

The Pacoima dam is 365 feet high and will stand as the highest dam in the world until the completion of the 425-foot San Gabriel dam. Work on the structure was started four years ago and its cost has been $2,500,000.

In design the dam is known as a constant angle arch dam. According to Engineer Eaton, this type of dam has never been known to break. The structure in the Pacoima canyon is 95 feet thick at the base, 65 feet wide across the stream bed and 690 feet long on the crest.

Construction of the dam involved the excavation of 87,000 yards of rock and the placing of 225,000 yards of concrete. All cement used in the dam was from bins set aside by the manufacturers for exclusive use of the flood control district. The sand, rock and gravel, Eaton explained, was carefully analyzed in the flood control district laboratories.

The dam controls 28 square miles of mountain watershed on the Pacoima creek. It will serve to protect the San Fernando valley against devastating floods.

Probate Court Given Will of Alfred Fletcher

The will of the late Alfred C. B. Fletcher, who with his wife, Mrs. Antoinette Rogers Fletcher, lost his life on the ill-fated steamer Vestris Nov. 12 last year, has been filed for probate in the superior court in San Francisco. The estate is estimated "in excess of $10,000."

According to the terms of the will, which was dated Jan. 26, 1922, Fletcher left an income to his wife, in the event of his death, or in the event of her death, to their children. There are no children, as a matter of fact, and the heirs are listed as Alfred Fletcher, father, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Evelyn C. Macoy, Webster Groves, Mo., a sister.

John E. Fletcher, a brother, 2810 Washington street, San Francisco, with William Wickham Mills of Newark, are named executors. Fletcher was connected with the Caterpillar Tractor company of San Leandro and lived at the Hotel Oakland. He was en route to Buenos Aires to take over the duties of district manager for his concern at that point. His brother is connected with William Cavellier & Co., bond firm.

Beaty Favors El Monte Site for Airport

"The proposed airport site at El Monte is the most ideal in the county. Its climatic conditions and other natural advantages are the best to be found. I shall do everything in my power to locate a county major airport at El Monte."

This was the declaration made this week by Fred T. Beaty, county supervisor in this district.

Supervisor Beaty announced that the board is considering the request of San Gabriel valley for the establishment of a major airport at El Monte, and that the question has been taken under advisement.

"The only other airport site that compares with the El Monte site is Ross field, which is in the same section, but is entirely inadequate for a major airport, being too small," said Supervisor Beaty. "Ross field should be returned to the county for park and road purposes, and I am doing all that I can to have this done."

Irrigation Urged for Walnut Crops

Rainfall deficiencies must be made up by irrigation between now and the last of March if best results are to be obtained, according to M. H. Kimball, assistant farm advisor. Total rainfall for the season has been but little more than last year and the soils are generally dry.

In heavy soils, around Whittier and Puente, where no winter irrigation has been applied, walnut groves are not moist below two and one-half or three feet from rainfall. In medium loam soils, without winter irrigation, moisture is not down over four feet from winter rains. In light loams and sandy soils, the rainfall has gone down as much as five feet.

Another factor in favor of irrigation at the present time is that many walnut growers can get gravity water now at cheaper cost or can get water from irrigation districts during this season without conflict with citrus growers. Many citrus growers will normally be irrigating in April or May.

THE FIGHT AGAINST TERMITES

The people of California, according to statistics, are facing a real battle with the termite, sometimes called the white ant. The matter has been known for some years, but it looked so silly to get aroused over a mite of a bug that one can scarcely see, that the danger has been ignored. But it has been brot home to many places in the state during the past two years when street trees were found destroyed even before it was known what caused their death. Buildings have collapsed before owners even suspected that the insidious pests were within a thousand miles of their property.

Glendora has had a rude awakening during the past ten days, when several dwellings were discovered by accident to have their foundations literally eaten away. When it was discovered the ants were prevalent here, several owners had their places examined and some were found to be alive with the pests. No house is safe unless complete concrete foundations with sills and studding placed off the ground are used. Several houses were found where the sills had been destroyed and the studding eaten six or more feet high from the ground. The pests work under ground and so may be on a place for years before their presence is known.

There is a spray of asphalt and gilsonite which is recommended by the government and the home owners should employ a carpenter to investigate, as it may save their buildings.—Glendora Gleaner.

GIRLS ENTERTAINED AT FAREWELL PARTY

Mr. E. P. Warner sponsored a party for her class of girls last Friday at the Methodist church. The party was given for Ella Schmidt, who left this week with her family to reside in Marysville. Dinner was served at 5:30 and the honoree presented with a handkerchief shower. There were eleven girls present.

"Orchard and Dairy a Fine Combination —We Need More Dairymen"

Marysville, California, August 17, 1927.

Mountain View Farms Company,
Los Angeles, California.

Gentlemen: I came to Marysville in 1914 from Eureka. I have been dairying all this time. We get more feed per acre here than in the Eureka country, where bare land sells for $1,000 per acre. We get eight to ten tons per acre of alfalfa in five to six cuttings. Our quality is very fine. I make $150 per cow per year. I sell whole milk at the roadside. It goes to Lincoln by truck to the condenser. We got 55c to 57c for butter fat the last four months, which is about 13c to 14c per pound above the San Francisco market quotation. I have twenty cows. Good cows can be bought for $70 to $80 per head. I own 50 acres, which I would not sell for $30,000. I have 20 acres in alfalfa, 5 acres in 5-year-old grapes, 5 acres in 6-year-old prunes, 20 acres in natural pasture. My buildings are worth $5000 to $6000. Orchard and dairying are a fine combination. We need more dairymen, and this country offers a wonderful opportunity for dairymen. More production will make us even better marketing conditions. Dairying will never be overdone.

I like this climate fine. I am lots healthier here than any place I ever lived. The heat will never hurt anyone here. We always have cool nights. We have the finest kind of water.

Very truly,
JOHN H. HANSEN.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Though the Ford tires are designated as 30 x 4.50, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel-spoke wheels.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent premature wear.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

Our New President—

Herbert Hoover is just a human being, prone to make mistakes like all human beings, and even tho he assumes this week the highest office in the nation, he is not vested with unlimited power.

More than any president this nation has chosen in decades is this man fitted to make good on the job. But we must not try to make a superman out of him. He brings a training to the office that has never been possessed by any other president. As an engineer he is in a strategic position to bring to fruition many long-needed projects, and we confidently expect that he will do so. But huge bodies of people, like that of the American people, move slowly. There is much opposition to overcome, much selfishness to subdue, much misunderstanding to set right, no matter what the project may be.

Herbert Hoover looms large in the plans of expansion for this country. He has the confidence of the people to a most remarkable degree. He will make good in every way if we back him one hundred per cent. That's our job in the next four years—to back the president.

The Wilbur Family—

There are a considerable number of people in Covina city and valley who know Curtis D. Wilbur personally. His brother, Ray Lyman Wilbur, is not known as well in the southern portion of the state, altho there are many Stanford graduates in the valley who know him well.

It is somewhat remarkable that these brothers should both find their way into the president's cabinet. Curtis Wilbur is retiring this week as secretary of the navy, and his brother becomes secretary of the interior. Not so long ago, Curtis Wilbur was a superior court judge in Los Angeles county. He has always taken an earnest interest in child welfare. He is a conscientious man, painstaking, meticulous, and uncompromising with wrong. He was taken from the bench in California to serve Coolidge at Washington. He had gone as high in the judiciary as is possible in this state, occupying the position of chief justice. It is declared that Hoover will make him a justice of the supreme bench of the United States as soon as there is a vacancy.

Friends of these brothers are glad that they have been recognized to such a marked degree. They are both worthy of trust. They are men of high integrity, and the country needs men of unswerving honesty and ability. The presidents have not always been as happy in cabinet choosing as in the selection of the Wilbur brothers.

Boring From Underneath—

Ever since the flood control bonds were voted, there has been a determined and unremitting drive from several under-cover sources to take the building of the San Gabriel canyon dam out of the hands of the board of supervisors. This drive is being revived again at the present time, after having met with defeat in the past.

The city of Los Angeles has been led to believe by some of its officials that the San Gabriel dam will be a ready-made reservoir for Colorado river water in the event that such water is brot to Los Angeles. Another outfit of schemers who were not in favor of voting the bonds in the first place, and who have obstructed the building of the dam since its inception, is desirous of forming a separate flood control commission, handled and controlled entirely outside of the influence of the board of supervisors, and their reason for advocating this change is that they cannot control the present chief engineer. There are cities that would like to put the supervisors out of control because these cities want to use the dam as a domestic water reservoir. There is legislation before the state legislature at the present time, asking that the flood control act of 1915 be amended to make it possible to store water in flood control dams.

The members of the board of supervisors know (and especially Chairman McClellan) that flood control and storage cannot be reconciled behind the same structure. Those who advocate making a reservoir of the San Gabriel dam know that this is a fact, also, but they are not at all concerned about the flood control features. They would destroy the flood control function and substitute storage, something for which the dam was never designed. The bonds voted were not so voted. They were voted for flood control. No storage of the character desired by cities is possible unless the flood control feature is abandoned. The San Gabriel dam is a conservation dam only incidental to its flood control function. There must be flood control, or conservation will not take place. It will store water caught behind the dam in the late spring and summer, but cannot be used to store great quantities of water to be available the year around for domestic purposes. These are plain facts that certain groups insist upon ignoring.

It may be that another bitter fight is in the making. It looks like it. The people, if they want flood control, must stay with the board of supervisors, regardless of all the propaganda that is being perniciously and constantly disseminated. If the flood control district gets out of the hands of the board of supervisors, we, of the San Gabriel valley, are sunk, so far as flood control is concerned.

There is no way in which flood control can be treated as a separate operation from that of the general county business. Flood control is linked and tangled up with highway construction, bridge building, harbor development, and maintenance taxation. Making a separated district with a new set of commissioners means another political subdivision, with another set of politicians in control, appointed for political purposes, and dominated by political engineers.

The water users and citizens in general in the San Gabriel valley will do well to watch out. Unless these schemers are stepped on hard, we may see the San Gabriel dam held up again for an indefinite period.
